

Absentee/Mail Ballot Verification

No updates required since May 28, 2026

Background

States use a variety of methods to verify that absentee and mail ballots were returned by the correct voter. Many states conduct rigorous signature verification processes or match identifying information such as driver’s license numbers, while some states only confirm the ballot is signed or the voter has affirmed their own identity.

Scoring

- State requires signature matching or uses other identifying information to verify absentee/mail ballots, 1 point
- State does not require signature matching or uses other identifying information to verify absentee/mail ballots, 0 points
