Background

Credit and lending nondiscrimination laws protect people from being unfairly denied credit and lending services, such as opening a bank account, taking out a loan, and more.

Other rights may exist or be applicable where you live, including through broadly-defined public accommodations laws (see the State-by-State Sources section for additional information). This map and factsheet are not intended as legal advice or an indication of all of your rights. If you have experienced discrimination, please contact Lambda Legal's Help Desk or otherwise seek legal advice.

NOTE: On March 9, 2021, the federal Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) issued an interpretative rule (archived page here) confirming that it is illegal to discriminate in credit and lending based on sexual orientation and gender identity. As a result, LGBTQ people across the country could file complaints with the CFPB. However, on May 12, 2025, the new Trump administration rescinded this rule, along with 66 other agency policies. For more detail, see here.

State-by-State Sources & More Detail

Alabama

- No state credit nondiscrimination law enumerating sexual orientation or gender identity

Alaska

- No state credit nondiscrimination law enumerating sexual orientation or gender identity
- Formerly, following the June 2020 U.S. Supreme Court ruling in Bostock v. Clayton County, Georgia, the Alaska state agency explicitly interpreted existing state protections against discrimination based on sex to include both sexual orientation and gender identity for employment, housing, public accommodations, credit/lending, and government agencies/practices. See archived capture of Alaska State Commission for Human Rights (announced Dec 2020), agency social media post (Dec 2020), and subsequent guidance with further detail (Feb 2021). However, under pressure from conservative interest groups amid the 2022 election season, in August 2022 the agency rescinded its interpretation for all areas except for employment, which was explicitly covered by the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in Bostock. See this coverage for more details about this reversal, and see also the agency's social media post announcing the change (August 2022).
